

KWISP offers a $10/month discount for residential customers who authorize paperless billing and autopay. We need a signed authorization form on file, with current credit or debit card information and current email address. You are responsible for updating the card number, expiration date, or email address if they change.

KWISP will automatically charge monthly recurring service fees to the card on file at the beginning of each service period. No paper invoices or statements will be mailed, and any billing notifications such as card expired/declined will be sent via email. If notified of problems charging the card, you must provide a new payment method and bring the account current within 15 days, or lose the discount.

You may choose to have copies of the paid invoices sent via email when the card is charged (for example, if copies are needed for tax records or employer reimbursement).

Calling in a card payment each month by phone, or mailing it in each month, does not qualify as autopay.

I authorize KWISP to charge my card automatically each month and to send all billing notices via email:
